Sounds good - I'll be there at 11:00 unless I hear otherwise.

Sonja, lets make the set time 11:00am and if anything changes I will call you on your cell.

Thanks

Carla

Hi Carla-

I'm guessing it would take me about 2 1/2 hours to get to Taunton District Court from when I get the call (putting my submissions away, changing, driving, parking). Another option I used when I had to go to Quincy was to plan on being there at a set time (i.e. 11:30), and if you find out it is not going forward to give me a call as soon as you know so I can turn around and return to work without driving all the way there for no reason. If this is what you'd prefer, let me know what time you want me there and I'll plan on leaving accordingly. The best to reach me would be on my cell ([REDACTED]) as I could already be on the road. Just let me know what works best for you. Thanks.

Hi Sonja,

The above case is still on for 2/9/12 and I anticipate going forward. If anything happens to change that, I will let you know.

You can be on call but how long would it take for you to arrive at Taunton District Court? Also, what's a number I can call you at on that day?

Carla-

I just wanted to let you know that my schedule is still open for this Thursday (2/9/12), though I do have 1 Superior Court case in Springfield in which the ADA thinks I will be needed on Wednesday (the case is suppose to start today). Is the case still on for Thursday, or has anything changed (plea, continuance, etc.)? Are you going to want me there bright and early when court starts, or at a different set time, or on call? Thanks.

Well happy that you can knock Taunton off your list for Monday and happy to hear that you are in the clear for 2/9/12. See you then.

Thanks for letting me know. I was actually just about to email you to let you know that I've got a few (3 or 4) Superior Court cases in Springfield in the waiting for tomorrow or next week, and although I told them that I had your case on Monday, there was a slim chance that I could get a call from one of the ADAs to testify. And as of right now, February 9th is open for me.

Sonja,

FYI: The above case was on for JT 12/12/11 but it has been moved to February 9, 2012. Please place new date in your calendar and you will be sent a summons shortly before.

Thanks,
